STANDARDS OF CARE IN DIABETES—2024

The American Diabetes Association's "Standards of Care in Diabetes" is based on a complete review of the relevant literature and is intended to provide clinicians, researchers, policymakers, and other interested individuals with the components of diabetes care, general treatment goals, and tools to evaluate the quality of care. The American Diabetes Association Professional Practice Committee updates the Standards of Care annually and strives to include discussion of emerging clinical considerations. Access the 2024 Standards of Care at diabetesjournals.org/care/issue/47/Supplement\_1.

NEW PODCAST: DIABETESBIO

DiabetesBio is a new monthly podcast of the American Diabetes Association's flagship research journal, Diabetes. The podcast is intended for diabetes researchers who are interested in the physiology and pathophysiology of diabetes. Hosts Drs. Kirk Habegger, Darleen Sandoval, and Kevin Williams explore the latest cutting-edge research on diabetes and related complications. For more information, please visit diabetesjournals.org/diabetes/pages/diabetesbio.

NEW ARTICLE COLLECTION MAPS OUT CGM'S ROLE IN TRANSFORMING DIABETES MANAGEMENT

The global diabetes pandemic necessitates a shift in care practices for an expanding population with the disease. In a Diabetes Spectrum article collection titled "Roadmaps to Continuous Glucose Monitoring's Role in Transforming Diabetes Management," experts, led by guest editor Dr. Richard M. Bergenstal, explore how continuous glucose monitoring (CGM) can revolutionize diabetes care. The collection outlines step-by-step processes for CGM implementation in key areas, emphasizing recent advances, addressing barriers, and envisioning a future where all can access transformative diabetes therapies. Access the collection at diabetesjournals.org/spectrum/pages/cgm\_roadmaps for the latest insights on enhancing diabetes care.

QUALITY IMPROVEMENT AND POPULATION HEALTH IN PRACTICE

Clinical Diabetes recently published an article collection outlining recent work by the T1D Exchange Quality Improvement Collaborative, a learning health system focusing on quality improvement projects to enhance the care of people with type 1 diabetes. The latest collection includes feature articles on understanding providers' readiness and attitudes toward autoantibody screening, institutional barriers to the successful implementation of telemedicine for type 1 diabetes care, and more.
